

WHAT IS TIP?

In 1982, the Turn In a Poacher (TIP) program began, reducing poaching and other wildlife crimes throughout the state by involving the public in reporting wildlife crimes.

The TIP program is administered by the Ohio Division of Wildlife with support from TIP Inc., a committee of concerned Ohio citizens.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Wildlife officers can't be everywhere at one time. You can be another set of eyes and ears. If you witness a poacher in action or have knowledge of a wildlife crime, call your local wildlife officer or the toll-free TIP line — at 1-800-POACHER (1-800-762-2437) and report it! TIP allows you to remain totally anonymous, even to the TIP trustees who pay the reward.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT POACHING

Many people think poachers are poor people just trying to feed their family. This is rarely true. Putting food on the table is seldom the reason for poaching. Some poachers do eat the meat, some give it away. Others sell it for profit, while others just shoot animals and leave them lay.

Poachers are thieves who have no respect for the wildlife resource. In reality, poaching is a danger not only for wildlife, but to the community at large. Often, poachers are the same people who shoot livestock and road signs or break into homes or vehicles to steal.

Poachers never follow the rules and laws that law-abiding hunters do. Poachers will use any method they can to steal wildlife. They use vehicles, spotlights, illegal nets or other devices—anything that will give them the meat, antlers, fur, or fish they pursue. Fair chase and following the law mean nothing to them.

WHY WILDLIFE LAW ENFORCEMENT IS ESSENTIAL

The goal of wildlife management is to produce healthy and stable wildlife resources. The illegal taking and removal of Ohio's threatened and endangered species along with the unreported harvest of species like deer and turkey make managing wildlife populations difficult. Wildlife management works best when supported by effective laws and their enforcement.

No matter how good a wildlife program may be, wildlife crimes will continue. The goal of the TIP program is to reduce the number of wildlife violations through communication with the public. With your assistance the Division of Wildlife and TIP are targeting poachers.

SERIOUS CRIMES DEMAND SERIOUS SOLUTIONS

Fish and wildlife are valuable natural resources. People who hunt and fish legally add millions of dollars to the economy of Ohio not only from the purchase of licenses and permits, but for equipment, fuel, charter trips, hotel stays, and other services. Additionally there are many people who enjoy wildlife through photography or by simply viewing it in its natural state. In short, wildlife adds to the state's economy and the quality of life of Ohioans.

REWARDS

People who destroy these resources illegally are thieves (criminals), no different from someone robbing your home. To help the Division of Wildlife reduce these crimes and bring violators to justice, the TIP program provides monetary rewards to those providing information that leads to the conviction of a poacher. Paying for information about crimes while keeping callers' identities confidential has proven successful in crime stopping efforts around the nation; other states also use similar programs to fight crimes against fish and wildlife.
